

NO CREDIT OR DEBIT CARD REQUIRED TO SIGN UP

Localservices.tech

Local services. Global reach.

What is this site?

Localservices.tech is a worldwide directory built for freelancers, trades, and small businesses — organized by country, state, and city so people looking for help can find a real local provider in seconds. Post once, and your listing shows up everywhere it should: the local hub, the category page, and global search.

Soft-launch promo — list free, lock in the loyalty rate

We're in the soft-launch window right now while I work the last bugs out of the software. To thank the early providers who help me shake it down, the promo is being upgraded:

- List during the first 30 days — get 60 days of free advertising, then 60% off the standard subscription rate, good for a full year.
- List during the second 30 days — get 50% off the standard rate, good for six months.

Everyone who jumps in during the promo window comes out ahead. The few minutes it takes to post your listing will pay for itself many times over once we go full throttle.

A heads-up on traffic

Be patient with month one. You'll likely get some inquiries early — and many providers do — but the big visitor surge starts in month two, when the marketing push goes full throttle and we start proving the site to the people who need services. Get your listing up now so you're already ranked and established when the wave arrives.

How buyers reach you

Every listing has a Contact provider button that takes the visitor to your profile, where your email address and website are shown. Conversations happen directly between you and the customer over your own email or phone — there's no extra inbox to check here. (Visitors must sign in to see contact info, which cuts down on spam.)

Found a bug? Tell me right away

If anything on the site looks off, breaks, or behaves strangely, please report it to me immediately so I can fix it before the surge. Early reports from real providers are the whole point of the soft launch — your feedback shapes the platform.

Post your free listing today

localservices.tech

Soft-launch promo. Terms set at sign-up. Limited-time offer.

NO CREDIT OR DEBIT CARD REQUIRED TO SIGN UP

Localservices.tech

Local services. Global reach.

What is this site?

Localservices.tech is a worldwide directory built for freelancers, trades, and small businesses — organized by country, state, and city so people looking for help can find a real local provider in seconds. Post once, and your listing shows up everywhere it should: the local hub, the category page, and global search.

Soft-launch promo — list free, lock in the loyalty rate

We're in the soft-launch window right now while I work the last bugs out of the software. To thank the early providers who help me shake it down, the promo is being upgraded:

- List during the first 30 days — get 60 days of free advertising, then 60% off the standard subscription rate, good for a full year.
- List during the second 30 days — get 50% off the standard rate, good for six months.

Everyone who jumps in during the promo window comes out ahead. The few minutes it takes to post your listing will pay for itself many times over once we go full throttle.

A heads-up on traffic

Be patient with month one. You'll likely get some inquiries early — and many providers do — but the big visitor surge starts in month two, when the marketing push goes full throttle and we start proving the site to the people who need services. Get your listing up now so you're already ranked and established when the wave arrives.

How buyers reach you

Every listing has a Contact provider button that takes the visitor to your profile, where your email address and website are shown. Conversations happen directly between you and the customer over your own email or phone — there's no extra inbox to check here. (Visitors must sign in to see contact info, which cuts down on spam.)

Found a bug? Tell me right away

If anything on the site looks off, breaks, or behaves strangely, please report it to me immediately so I can fix it before the surge. Early reports from real providers are the whole point of the soft launch — your feedback shapes the platform.

Post your free listing today

localservices.tech

Soft-launch promo. Terms set at sign-up. Limited-time offer.